Cooking With Beer!

Looking for a good book about cooking with beer?

Cooking with Beer

Famous Chefs and Other Characters Cook with Beer

by W. Scott Griffiths and Christopher Finch
Loretta Hwong, Food Editor

W. Scott Griffiths owns Rhino Chasers ales and beers. Christopher Finch is a beer expert, columnist and author. Together they gathered beer recipes from chefs, cookbook writers, a few celebrities and a handful of "others" and published them in Famous Chefs. Loretta-Hwong Griffiths adds the culinary know-how. While the recipes mostly favor the Rhino Chasers products, the book includes one of its most useful and very best features: a Substitution Chart, listing styles, brands and cooking properties. This chart takes the confusion out of buying beer as an ingredient. The recipes are generally more exotic than those of Cooking with Beer. However, star chefs like Andre Soltner, Michael Roberts, and Nobu Matsuhisa reflect their greatness by keeping the elements simple and dignified, balancing flavors rather than creating competition.

Beer Geek

Studies have shown that moderate consumption of beer can prevent cell damage that can lead to cancer and heart disease. Hops and malt used to make beer are rich sources of disease-fighting antioxidants. Beer also contains polyphenols, the same antioxidants found in wine, fruits, vegetables, and green and black tea. Ales and lagers generally contain more antioxidants than light and nonalcoholic beers.

Beer Spotlight

Shiner Hefeweizen

(Hef-ay-vite-zen)

recalls the classic beers of Bavaria as a true unfiltered wheat brew. This beer captures old-world Munich Malt, wheat grist used in a scant 1% of all brews worldwide, orange and lemon zest in a frothy classic example of bottle-conditioned beer. Adding clover honey and yeast just before it's bottled touches off a unique, secondary fermentation process inside every keg and bottle before its final release from the brewery.

Follow these step-by-step directions to POUR YOURSELF AN OUT-OF-BOTTLE EXPERIENCE?:

- POUR half of the bottle into a glass.
- ROUSE the yeast by swirling the bottle and pouring what's left into the glass.
- ENJOY this unfiltered brew with a generous wedge of lemon

Landshark Lager

(Jacksonville, FL)

This is not just a refreshing beer? but a state of mind. Brewed by Margaritaville Brewing Co in Florida Landshark Lager is about good times, good friends, good food and a great party on the beach. Like Margaritaville, Land Shark Lager is all about island living.

Happy Birthday!

At Summits, we think birthdays are a really big deal! After all, they only come once per year!

Here's a little something to help you start your celebration!

Did You Know?

When Alexander Graham Bell passed away in 1922, every telephone served by the Bell system in the USA and Canada was silent for one minute.

On 5th October 1974, four years, three months and sixteen days after Dave Kunste set out from Minnesota, he became the first man to walk around the world, having taken more than 20 million steps.

Quote of the Week

“Everybody has to believe in something.....I believe I’ll have another drink.”
